TEXTILE, APPAREL AND RECYCLED PRODUCT

Plastic and its derivation has been the main concern worldwide causing environmental damage. The nature of the plastic which is difficult to degrade naturally, has threatened the land and the sea ecosystem. This leads to the increasing need of plastic product and its derivations (apparel, fiber, nylon, etc) which come from sustainable and responsible source. Recycling is one of the plastic reduction program worldwide. Certification of recycled product also has been developed to ensure the distributor and consumer (both middle and end user) with the plastic they are using. This means, the amount of recycled plastic used, the origin of the plastic, content of the plastic in the product can be traced.
